

Online Orientation Program on Android Development with Kotlin -
Train The Trainer organized by GTU in association with Google
India.

Date: 21st December 2020

Time: 04:00 PM to 06:30 PM

Resource Persons: 1. Mr. Lalit Singh Manral, Training Program Manager, Google, Bengaluru,
2. Mr. Harsh Dattani, Community Manager, Google, Bengaluru.

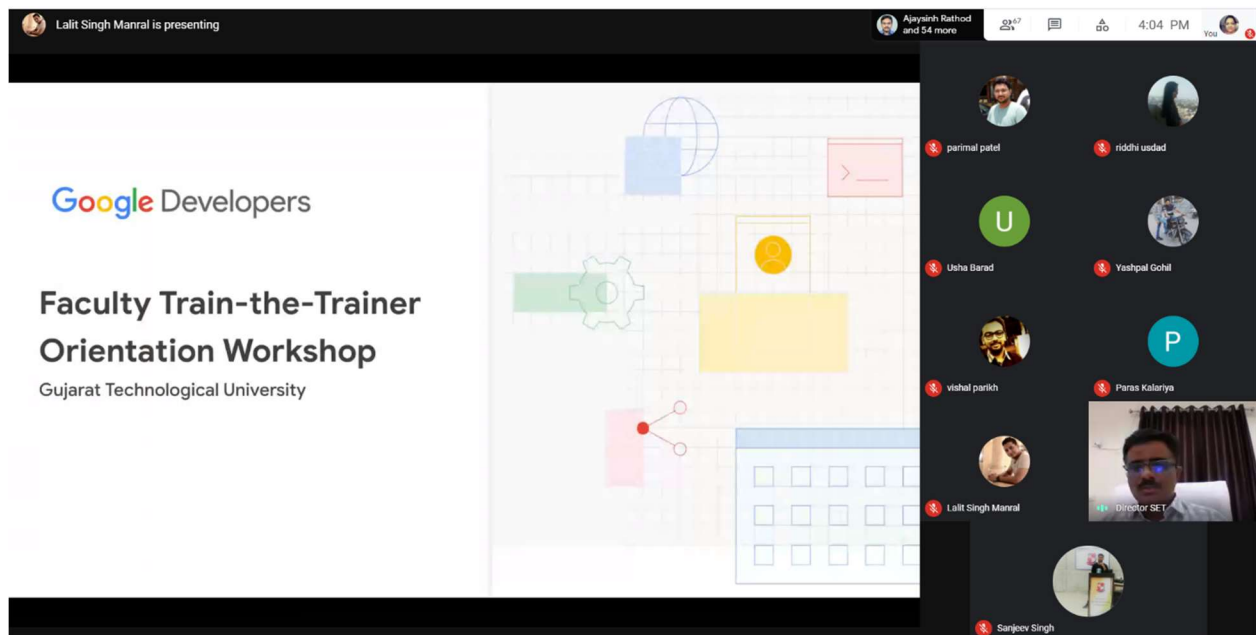

Program Coordinator: Prof. Seema B. Joshi, Assistant Professor (Cyber Security), GTU-GSET

About the Orientation Program:

Gujarat Technological University in collaboration with Google India had organized an online orientation program on Android Development with Kotlin - Train The Trainer for GTU affiliated institute faculty members on 21st December 2020 to aware the faculty members about the importance of Kotlin Programming with the hand-on demonstration.

Objective of the particular webinar

The main objective of this orientation program was to create awareness about the Kotlin Programming Language, which is now preferred language for Android app developers. This workshop will be benefitted to enhance the skills of faculty members and further it will be useful for the students.

During the session around the 100+ Participant join the orientation program.

Outcomes:

At the end of the program, participants were able to learn the basics of Kotlin Programming and App Development.