The expert guided students on the essential elements of an effective presentation, including appropriate attire, gestures, body movements, posture and confident delivery. She also offered practical guidance on structuring and delivering presentations, handling nervousness and engaging the audience.

The workshop was based majorly on practical knowledge rather than theory. Students took part in several hands-on activities, including individual presentations and group presentations, which allowed them to apply the techniques discussed, build confidence and receive immediate feedback and suggestions from the expert. Overall, the workshop proved to be highly informative and beneficial. It successfully enhanced participants' understanding of presentation and soft skills, improved their confidence and communication abilities, and motivated them to present themselves more effectively in academic and professional settings.
